

FIFTEEN NEW SILOS FOR TEXAS EVERY DAY; SEPTEMBER 1 THERE WERE 8,560 IN STATE

THE SILO IN TEXAS PROMISES TO BECOME AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN AGRICULTURE AS THE FLOW—REDUCES COST OF KEEPING DAIRY COWS AND BEFF CATTLE ENORMOUSLY.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 5.—The silo in Texas promises to be an important factor in agriculture as the flow—and the present rapid construction of the silo indicates that it will soon be as common as the barn.

On September 1, 1914, there were 8,560 silos in the state of Texas, according to data just compiled by the Texas Business Month Association. Nearly two-thirds of the silos in Texas have been built during the past year and their construction is one of the most important events now occurring in the history of Texas agriculture. The immediate reason for the rapid construction of silos is the fact that they have been ordered from manufacturers and will be put up in Texas before the close of the present year. Fifteen silos have been built in Texas during the past year, and the present construction of silos is one of the most important events now occurring in the history of Texas agriculture.

Nearly 100,000 silos are now being ordered from manufacturers and will be put up in Texas before the close of the present year. Average Capacity—According to the report of the Texas Business Month Association, the average capacity of silos in Texas is 1,000 bushels. This is a very large capacity for a silo of this size, and it is one of the reasons why silos are so popular in Texas.

From the reports furnished it is apparent that the silo in Texas is not a new thing, but a well-known fact. The average capacity of the silo in Texas is 1,000 bushels, and the average cost of a silo is $100. The First Silo.—When and where the first silo was built in Texas is not a matter of record. However, it is well known that the silo in Texas is not a new thing, but a well-known fact. Half Million Silos Needed.—There is one silo in every fifty farms in Texas, but to properly feed the live stock of this state there should be at least one silo on every Texas farm. There are 10,000,000 farms in Texas, and there are only 200,000 silos in Texas. This is a very large gap, and it is one of the reasons why silos are so popular in Texas.

During the past decade there has been a decrease in the number of silos in Texas, and this is one of the reasons why silos are so popular in Texas.

TOMORROW USHERS IN FIRST DAY BALTIMORE CELEBRATION

FIFTY MAYORS AND SIX GOVERNORS TO BE AMONG THOSE ATTENDING FESTIVITIES

(The Associated Press.) BALTIMORE, Sept. 5.—The festival arranged for the celebration here of the centennial of the birth of the nation, "The Star Spangled Banner," and the successful defense of Fort Mifflin, which was the final battle which decided the fate of the city, will begin tomorrow. The celebration will continue a full week, during which in addition to the two principal events commemorated, a century of progress will be reviewed. The celebration will terminate on Sunday of the 10th.

Historic Fort Mifflin, abandoned in 1776, will be the scene of the celebration. The fort was the scene of the final battle which decided the fate of the city, and it is one of the reasons why the celebration is so important.

During the week there will be a number of other events, including a parade, a fireworks display, and a number of other festivities. The celebration is one of the most important events in the history of the city.

Two of the principal events of the week, the track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union, and the Middle States tennis, will be held during the week. Land and water sports, a military and industrial parade, historical and fraternal society pageants, national lawn parties, tournament, a reproduction in fireworks of the battle of Fort Mifflin, patriotic exercises, dedications of monuments and tablets and other events will be part of the program.

Through the State Department at Washington foreign nations were invited to participate in the celebration. While the war in Europe will prevent the countries involved taking part, practically all of the neutral powers have signified their intention of being represented.

The governors of thirty states and the mayors of fifty cities have named delegates to attend the celebration. Among the governors who expect to come to Baltimore are David I. Walsh of Massachusetts; Simon E. Baldwin of Connecticut; John K. Tener of Pennsylvania; Henry C. Stuart of Virginia; Charles R. Miller of Delaware; Cole L. Benson of South Carolina; Elliott W. Major of Missouri; Edward F. Dunne of Illinois; and Joseph M. Carey of Wyoming. Governor Marvin H. Glynn of New York will be represented by Adjutant-General Henry D. Hamilton and six members of the governor's staff.

W. P. GIVENS, Pres. and Mgr. 310 and 312 Mesquite Street

Corpus Christi, Texas, Sept. 5th, 1914

Dear Sir:—

Bring us your cotton, we will give you 10c a pound for it. Knowing that the war in Europe has so effected the cotton markets of the world, that all exchanges and mills have shut down, the time has arrived when some action must be taken by home people. The producer, the man who by rights should derive the greatest benefit from his products is placed in a very peculiar position, that is, if he disposes of his products, he must be the greatest loser.

Many farmers are doing without the actual necessities of life on account of this disaster, that is tearing Europe from its very foundation. Realizing conditions as they really are the Givens Furniture Co. wants to take the stand of being one firm who is willing to risk a chance of helping out the men who should be helped at a time when he most needs help. Our stock of furniture consisting of dressers, beds, chairs, rockers, tables, mattresses, springs, stoves for wood, coal, oil and gasoline, and everything else that is needed in a home is complete in every detail. Come to our store and make your selections and we will take your cotton in exchange, and allow you 10c a pound for it, which is from 2 to 4c a pound more than the market price at present.

Come in to see us in our new store, we will be glad to see you, whether you want to buy or not.

Yours very truly,
Givens Furniture Co.

P. S. We wish to call your special attention to the fact that we have a well appointed rest room for the exclusive use of the ladies. Come and make use of this room. Nice comfortable rockers and plenty of ice water.

CLOSER COOPERATION BETWEEN BUSINESS MEN AND FARMERS NOW PREVAILS IN TEXAS

FARMERS' UNION OFFICIALS ISSUE STATEMENT THANKING TEXAS PRESS FOR GIVING PUBLICITY TO UNION IN PLACING ISSUES FIRST IN LATE CAMPAIGN.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 5.—The following article was given out to the press from the headquarters of the Farmers' Union in this city today.

"We want to thank the press of this state for the liberal space given our discussions during the past few months and as evidence of the power of publicity, we want to briefly review the results which have accrued to the farmers of Texas from the courteous and extended the Farmers' Union by the press.

"There never was in the history of Texas a more studied and determined effort on the part of the government to cooperate with the farmer than at present. There never was a time when the city business man was rendering as able and conscientious a service to the farmer as at present. There never was a time when organized co-operation was more thoroughly understood and a more friendly relation existed between the different lines of industry than at present. There never was a time when the desire on the part of the individual to promote the welfare of all the people was greater than at present. This has been the result of publicity.

"This world was not made for any particular individual and none of us can have everything we want, just the way we want it. It takes patriotism, courage and wisdom to make good citizens and while these virtues may become temporarily obscured by the heat and smoke of a campaign, they abound abundantly in Texas.

Campaign an Economic Education.—The campaign just closed is a most convincing demonstration of the power of publicity. Oursure issues and sincere men have, in some important instances, prevailed over those more noted but well established, and the results should thoroughly convince everyone that "it pays to advertise." No campaign ever made a greater contribution to the education of the citizenship, and no issues were ever faced more intelligently than during the last election. Wisdom should always be a welcome guest and understanding sought from every source, and no limitation should be placed upon the honest efforts of any individual or person in intelligently discussing economic issues. It is not only the prerogative of every American citizen, but his patriotic duty to participate in disseminating information and awakening public thought.

We take no stock in the wall that is going up from disgruntled politicians in cities in regard to the misuse of campaign funds. We are not familiar with city wars; perhaps they have arisen erroneously, but there was no barrier of sovereignty or shame of influence in the rural sections.

This campaign was won by the farmers standing together and understanding their problems. The farmers of this state are open-minded and intelligent. They are neither mummies nor ex-human beings; they are open to conviction and willing to vote for their best interests according to their understanding.

The most important single result transpiring in Texas during the past quarter of a century was the election of a governor and legislature pledged to give agriculture first attention. The transition from petty politics to sound business discussion will call for a new order of statesmanship, a new line of thought and open a new era of progress.

Until a very short time ago the problems of agriculture were supposed to be in production alone, but the public now realizes that the farmer is a capable workman and that the real problem is on the business side of agriculture. The city business man, by co-operating in marketing, has become a powerful ally to the farmer, and farmers, business men and bankers are co-operating in building warehouses and financing the crop.

has been ill supported, and without a comprehensive plan of operation which promoted the interests of agriculture from seed-breeding to marketing. The Farmers' Union, through the press, has brought to the attention of the public the necessity for a constructive agricultural policy that involves production, marketing and business co-operation, and the next Commissioner of Agriculture will be a practical farmer. Mr. Davis went before the people with a platform contemplating the expenditure of $100,000 and giving prominence to organization and co-operation of farmers and promoting the business side of agriculture, all of which, no doubt, the legislature will ratify.

The Farmers' Union has since organization endeavored to construct and put into operation a system of warehouses, but has failed to receive sufficient encouragement and co-operation. The necessity for such action is now universally acknowledged, and the legislature has met in special session to consider the problem and numerous meetings are being held daily to organize associations and promote the construction of warehouses.

In closing, we want to thank the press for the splendid co-operation given to the farmers of Texas in their struggle to receive public recognition of their problems.
